

Ian Morton - the furniture specialist

Ian Morton has been on coconut island for quite a while. As so many, he has been a tourist before & then fell in love with Samui (his 2nd love - after falling in love with his wife Jeanette 40 years ago). So the couple sold their flower shop chain & real estate properties in the UK and moved to this tropical island, a step they have never regretted. Now Ian runs a smart business with his AMBERELY furniture shop (opposite the Samui Palm Beach Resort), with product mostly from Chiang Mai. He is doing a fair business & it will be hard to find better bargains than at his shop. for more, call Ian on 086 283 7721

Winnie's singing bowl concerts

Not everyone likes to drink out of a bucket & later on puke into a slightly bigger one. If you're tired of the Full Moon Party, then try a very different evening. Kamalaya holds regular singing bowl concerts performed by Winnie Rode. Concerts will be held at Kamalaya's Yantra Hall, timed to usher in every Full Moon. The next concerts of this series are at 6:00 pm on 14 September, 2008, and there will be one in October, too. Singing bowls create access to a field of unlimited possibilities through their magic and internal effects. Winnie Rode is a German artist, an ordained Buddhist philosophy & meditation teacher (Lama) in the Tibetan Buddhist tradition, author of two books on Tibet and Bhutan, a shaman and a long term sound therapist. Admission is 300 Baht and everyone is welcome to attend this extraordinary spectacle. Tel: 077 429 800 or visit www.kamalaya.com.
